In Spain, the civil guard is a special type of police. The wear a very distinct hat, a fashion of the 18th century.

There are some gypsies in Spain, especially in the South where did they come from? In realty many historians think they come from the North East of India. They were a Nomadic people with their own culture & language. The popular Spanish music has great gypsy influence. One of their more important contributions is the creation of the Flamenco. The Flamenco is a dance, a music and song typical of the gypsies. It is believed that the Flamenco originated in the "deep song" of the Andalucia gypsies. For the middle of the 19th century, the Flamenco had become a popular art.

In the U.S. there are very practical places where you're able to buy everything. This is the supermarket. The supermarkets also exist in the Spanish world, but they are usually encountered in the big cities. There are not supermarkets on the small towns, but there is another institution (very picturesque) the market.

On a market day, the merchants of the region meet in the main plaza to set up their booths. They sell fruits and veggies, clothing & cooking utensils, beads and medicine products. Also come a photographer w/ his camera, a barber w/ his scissors, the dentist w/ his instruments, the traveling healer with his miraculous drugs, and the fortune teller.

~~On a market day~~ Ayer pasé
Tengo un cinturón como perdido, saqué una ~~ballena~~
Voy al mercado.
Tengo unas pargueras

The market day is a day on which the country people go to buy, sell their products, and reunite with their friends. Truthfully, it's a day of grand activity!
